

Tara's Closet fills a need you can see—the need for clothing which some cannot afford. However, there's another need not as visible—the underlying struggle of mental illness which may impact some participants. Tara's Closet has a dual mission: to provide clothing to JFS clients in a confidential and dignified manner while working to stop the stigma of mental illness with education and conversation. Through our Family and Child Services, early intervention can help identify signs and ensure appropriate treatment.

Donations to Tara's Closet fund mental health programs and services; embracing possibility through awareness and acceptance in our community.

Tara's Closet was inspired by Tara Savin, a bright young woman who suffered from bipolar disorder. She loved fashion and was all about humanity. In 2010, mental illness took her life.
